For more than 35 years, the Encuentro Nacional de la Empresa (ENADE) (National Encounter of the Private Enterprise) has been gathering the most important domestic entrepreneurs each year, becoming an actual thermometer of the economic-political atmosphere in the country.

“Where are we today?” was the question that marked this intense Enade 2015 meeting, with the participation, among other outstanding personalities, of President Michelle Bachelet, and successfully organized by ICARE.

In her speech delivered to the event, the Head of State affirmed, “economic strengthening would only flourish with social confidence, and the latter significantly depends on a fair development”.

In addition, the President highlighted that “confidence is a relation that only exists if simultaneously sustained by everyone. Here, there are no individual solutions for certain groups: the actions we need should come from everyone because they affect practices, institutions, and opportunities for an entire country”.

MundoChile had the opportunity to participate with its professional simultaneous interpreters in English and Spanish language combinations supporting this important meeting.
